Glenbard West drama offers child's view of holocaust

Glenbard West High School will present "I Never Saw Another Butterfly," a haunting drama that recounts the Holocaust from the perspective of its youngest victims -- the children.

The show will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday through Friday, April 26 through 28. Tickets are $5. Glenbard West is located at 670 Crescent Blvd. in Glen Ellyn.

Celeste Raspanti's "I Never Saw Another Butterfly" tells the story of one of the 15,000 children who passed through Terezin, a military post set up as a ghetto during World War II. It was a stopping-off place on the way to Auschwitz. The play is based on these children's poems and drawings, which were recovered and published in a book by the same name.
